localJAMES SANDERSON ORGAN RECITAL
IS EASTER SUNDAY AT UNIVERSITY

MISSOULA--

James G. Sanderson, a senior in applied music at the University of Montana, will present his senior organ recital at 8 p.m. Easter Sunday (April 14) in the UM Music Recital Hall.

Sanderson, a graduate of Sentinel High School, plans to attend the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, where he will study under Robert Glasgow to earn graduate degrees. He plans to enter the field of concert performance and teach on the university level.

Since enrolling at UM, Sanderson has studied under several faculty members, including Gary Ericksen, a visiting instructor; former instructor John Ellis and the late Laurence Perry. He has been the recipient of Music Foundation Scholarships; scholastic honor scholarships and twice was named recipient of the Florence Smith Award.

Works to be presented Sunday by Sanderson include "Suite du Deuxieme Ton" by Clerambault; "Three Works from the Late Period" by Bach; "Le Banquet Celeste" and "Les Corps Glorieux (The Resurrected Bodies)" by Olivier Messiaen, and "Symphonie III pour le grand orgue" by Louis Vierne.

Sunday's recital is open to the public without charge under the sponsorship of the UM School of Fine Arts and Department of Music.
